

WASHINGTON'S COMMUNITY AND TECHNICAL COLLEGES AS 100 STUDENTS

OCTOBER 30, 2019

Washington state is growing and changing, and our community and technical colleges reflect that. Students come to our colleges for a variety of reasons — get trained for a career, to transfer to a college or university, learn basic skills or just to take a class. Most are over the age of 20. Some have children. Many already have college experience or a degree. Anyone who wants to come to college and accomplish their goals should have the opportunity to do so. Washington's community and technical colleges believe that, and we're working to help all Washingtonians succeed.
